Videotaping: NATO Aspirants In Riga
June 28, 2002
Draft #5

02 JUN 27 PM 1:09

I am honored to send greetings to the leaders of the Vilnius [Vill-NEE-us] Ten group of nations aspiring to join the NATO Alliance. I thank Prime Minister Berzins (BEAR-zinsh) and President Vike Freiberga (VEE-ka FRY-burga) for hosting this important event in the great city of Riga (REE-guh). I am also pleased that Senator Lott and some of his colleagues were able to visit with you. The U.S. Senate has a critical role to play in ratifying any expansion of NATO, and I appreciate Senator Lott's leadership on these vital issues.

Our nations share a common vision of a new Europe, where free European states are united with each other and with the United States through cooperation, partnership, and alliance. We seek a new Europe that has buried its historic tensions and is prepared to meet global challenges beyond Europe's borders. America will continue to work arm-in-arm with Europe on fulfilling this vision.

At the Prague Summit later this year, we can take a major step by enlarging NATO to include all of Europe's democracies that are ready to share in NATO's responsibilities.

Since you first met in Vilnius a little over two years ago, your countries have made real progress on the essential reforms necessary for NATO membership. Work continues, as it must, to prepare your nations to make the greatest possible contributions to the new Europe we are building.

Today, our nations face another historic challenge: to defeat the forces of global terror. The attacks of September 11th took place in the United States, but their target was freedom itself. All of Europe, and freedom loving nations everywhere, are threatened by these forces of chaos and hatred.

NATO has risen to the challenge, declaring that an attack on one of its members is an attack on all, and NATO nations have made valuable contributions to the war on terror, in Afghanistan and elsewhere.

NATO must prepare itself to fight and defeat terror, and the other threats to freedom that we face together. And new members will help improve NATO's capabilities.

The Prague summit will mark the beginning of a new era in Europe and in trans-Atlantic relations, defined by greater security, greater prosperity, and greater freedom. We will see the great Alliance of liberty grow and prepare to fulfill its old mission in a new era. I am determined to succeed, and determined that our children will record this year as a momentous turning point in their history.

I wish you success at your meeting. I have met most of you and I look forward to again seeing my good friend Aleksander in a few weeks, here in Washington. We have a great opportunity ahead of us. The hopes and prayers of the American people are with you. Thank you.

Video Taping: Daughters of the American Revolution
June 28, 2002
Draft #8

02 JUN 27 PM 4:12

I am honored to address the 111th National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution Annual Continental Congress.

One of the great things about living in the White House is that I have some great neighbors. And a few blocks away from me is the DAR Constitution Hall. What a beautiful hall. And what a wonderful organization.

Since 1890, this outstanding organization has sought to honor the memory and the purpose of the American Revolution. Today, there are more than 170,000 DAR members in some 3,000 chapters all across America. And your service to your country is more important than ever.

Today, we find ourselves at war ... fighting an enemy whose evil is beyond comprehension. We did not seek this conflict, nor did we begin it. But we will fight it, and we will win.

Fighting terror will be costly. And that is why I have proposed the largest increase in defense spending since Ronald Reagan was President. After all, while the price of freedom and security is high, it is worth the price and never too much. Whatever it costs to defend our country, we will pay it.

At the same time we fight this war overseas, we must protect and secure our homeland. Recently I proposed a permanent Cabinet-level Department of Homeland Security to unite essential agencies that must work more closely together. Employees of this new agency will come to work every morning knowing their most important job is to protect their fellow citizens.

But I also want to help make America a better place – and I know you do, too. And we can do that by promoting a sound economic policy and by encouraging our citizens throughout America to help those in need. Any time someone wants to work and cannot find a job, I am concerned. That is why we passed a historic tax cut for the American people that will help promote job creation and economic growth. And I urge Congress to make this tax cut permanent. And sound economic policy means good schools. That is why we passed important education reform ... that increases local control, insists on high standards, and leaves no child behind.

And to encourage service, we support faith-based and community initiatives and USA FreedomCorps. We must continue to call upon the American people to love a neighbor as you would like to be loved yourself and to step forward to serve our communities and country. Many, including the DAR, are doing this already. And this is the gathering momentum of a thousand acts of compassion and kindness that shows the world the true spirit of America.

I thank the Daughters of the American Revolution for your spirit and your service. May we always remember our noble past. And may we never stop looking forward to our country's great future. May God bless the Daughters of the American Revolution. And may God bless America.

Video Taping: Focus on the Family
June 28, 2002
Draft #7

Thank you very much. I am honored to speak to all of you at Focus on the Family as you celebrate your first twenty-five years. I especially want to salute my friends James and Shirley Dobson for their leadership and commitment to that sacred bedrock of our society – the American family.

For twenty-five years, Focus on the Family has sought to protect our families and promote our values. And they are values that you and I share together. We believe in fostering a culture of life – and that marriage and family are sacred institutions that should be preserved and strengthened.

We believe that life is a creation, not a commodity – and that our children are gifts to be loved and protected, not products to be designed and manufactured by human cloning.

We believe that protecting human dignity and promoting human rights should be at the center of America's policy – foreign and domestic – and that our government should view the good people who work in faith-based charities as partners, not rivals.

We believe that the days of discriminating against religious institutions simply because they are religious must come to an end.

Faith teaches us that God has a special concern for the poor. Faith proves itself through actions and sacrifice, through acts of kindness and caring for those in need. For Christians and for most Americans, Jesus's admonition to care for "the least of these" is an important moral teaching.

Faith is also a source of comfort during times of grief. We saw this in the aftermath of the attacks on September 11th. Millions of Americans turned to prayer for wisdom and resolve, for compassion and courage, and for grace and mercy. And in these moments of prayer we were reminded of important truths – that suffering is temporary, that hope is eternal, and that the ruthless will not inherit the Earth.

Many of you have prayed for my family and me. We have felt sustained and uplifted by your prayers – and Laura and I are incredibly grateful to you for them. We consider your prayers to be among our most precious gifts.

Congratulations on twenty-five years. May God bless Focus on the Family. And may God bless America.

Video Taping: National Association of Blacks in Criminal Justice 29th
Annual Conference
June 28, 2002
Draft #7

Thank you very much. I am honored to speak to everyone at the National Association of Blacks in Criminal Justice as you gather for your 29th Annual Conference and Training Institute.

Justice is one of the defining commitments of America. In our war against terror, I constantly remind our fellow citizens we seek justice, not revenge. And while the war goes on, and while our fight for freedom continues, we will continue to work for justice at home.

I thank all of you for your commitment to the cause of justice. And I salute you for working with the Department of Labor to help find ways for people to leave the wrongs of their past behind and build a better future.

Last year, I announced one of the most important commitments of my Administration, the faith-based and community initiatives. Its purpose is to apply the compassion of Americans to help solve the problems of our country.

This initiative recognizes and honors the power of faith in helping heal some of our Nation's wounds. This initiative will rally the armies of compassion which are spread throughout the United States of America. And this initiative acknowledges that our greatest strength is found in the hearts and souls of the American people.

Since the attacks of September 11th, it has become clear how essential faith-based and community groups are to the well-being of our Nation. They have saved lives. They have provided hope. They have helped heal the Nation's wounds.

Right now, the Office of Faith-Based and Community Initiatives is working to eliminate barriers that discriminate against faith-based and community organizations. Government should not stand in the way of the good works of the people in our neighborhoods. And that is why I have urged the Department of Labor to work with all of you to develop a network

Many of you have prayed for my family and me. We have felt sustained and uplifted by your prayers – and Laura and I are incredibly grateful to you for them. We consider your prayers to be among our most precious gifts.

Congratulations on twenty-five years. May God bless Focus on the Family. And may God bless America.
