Subject: Update on BS COY award dinner

Spoke with Dave Digby, the person at the Boy Scouts who's organizing this years event. The event is taking place at the J.W. MARRIOT on 14th and Constitution (not the wardman). The room is the Capital Ballroom. The program is scheduled to start at 7:30 pm. I told them to try to schedule the chief's remarks for the earlier part of the program. It will likely happen some time between 7:30 - 8:00 for approx. 10 minutes. I'll let you know when we get an exact time.

We should definately be able to go in and out.

CITATION

SECRETARY'S HONOR AWARD

ROB NICHOLS

Rob Nichols served an instrumental role for the Department in effectively communicating the Administration's jobs and growth agenda both domestically and internationally, culminating in the enactment of the Jobs and Growth Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2003. The Jobs and Growth Act is historic legislation, proposed by President Bush on January 7, 2003, passed by the Congress on May 23, 2003, and signed into law by the President on May 28, 2003.

Rob worked tirelessly to transform the President's proposal, announced in a speech before the Economic Club of Chicago, into real tax relief for millions of American families, workers, savers, and investors. His communications expertise and skill in guiding the rollout and implementation of the Act were key to successfully influencing constituents, public opinion, and media coverage. On the international front, Rob's efforts to develop and communicate the Administration's jobs and growth message during the G-7 Finance Minister's winter meeting in Paris, France and again during the spring meeting in Deauville, France were of great value to Secretary Snow and to the Administration.

His dedication, professionalism, trustworthiness and political skills were vital to Secretary Snow's successful efforts to persuade the Congress of the merits of the President's plan. The bill is a signal achievement of this Administration, and will increase rewards for entrepreneurial and productive enterprises and strengthen the nation's financial foundation by speeding economic growth. Rob's counsel, creativity, hard work, and knowledge provided the tools needed to push this bill quickly through the legislative process. He worked in the spirit of teamwork and loyalty to the President's vision, and in doing so, brought out the best in others, resulting in a landmark legislative victory and a monumental economic win for the American people.

In recognition of this distinguished achievement and for his service to the Treasury Department, President Bush, and the entire Nation, Rob Nichols is awarded the Secretary's Honor Award.

Mr. Andrew Card
Chief of Staff to the President
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. Card:

On behalf of The Junior Statesmen Foundation, it is our pleasure to cordially invite you to participate as a special guest speaker at the sixty-third annual session of the Junior Statesmen Summer School. We would be deeply honored if you would join us for a 20 to 30 minute question and answer session. We will be meeting with speakers in Room 450 of the Old Executive Office Building on Monday, June 30 from 2:00 pm to 4:30 pm and Wednesday, July 23 from 11:30 am through 5:30 pm. Thank you for sponsoring our visit to the White House.

During the Junior Statesmen Summer School at Georgetown, two hundred fifty of America's future leaders descend on the capital for three-week intensive studies of politics and government. Over the years, our students have gained a reputation for asking educated, probing policy questions at our annual sessions across Washington. This reputation has allowed these high school scholars to meet with Cabinet members, leaders in the House and Senate, Supreme Court Justices, prominent journalists, and others in the political arena.

Our program is typically structured around a brief opening statement on a political issue of your choice, with the balance of time devoted to questions and answers. We know you will be impressed with the enthusiasm of our students and the depth of their questions.

The Summer School is sponsored by The Junior Statesmen Foundation, a nonprofit, nonpartisan educational organization founded over sixty years ago to educate youth about public affairs and about the responsibilities of leadership in a democratic society. Please find the enclosed information regarding the program, including a list of previous speakers on page seven. If you would enjoy spending 30 minutes with some of the brightest and best informed high school students in the nation, please have one of your staff contact us at 202/333-0364 to discuss a convenient time.

We hope you will be able to join us and look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Ann Chernicoff

In class, university professors guide you through a semester of advanced coursework in three weeks. Lectures, class discussions and political simulations explore the basic tenets of political science. Students may enroll in AP American Government, U.S. Foreign Policy, Constitutional Law or The Presidency. Assignments include extensive reading, two essay examinations and completion of a major research paper.

In Washington, D.C., you meet and question national leaders, including White House officials, Congressional leaders, Cabinet members, lobbyists and journalists. Students watch the House and Senate in session, attend Congressional hearings and use the vast resources of Washington while doing research for their term papers and debates. These trips are organized and chaperoned by the Speakers Program staff, RAs and the Summer School Director.

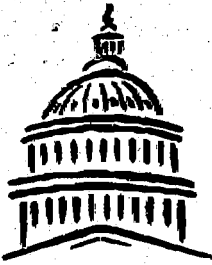

On Capitol Hill, a special reception honoring you and your classmates is an opportunity to meet members of Congress, politically active Junior Statesmen alumni and other government officials.

During Congressional Workshop, students put their knowledge into action. You and your classmates will help create and run a legislative body patterned after the U.S. Congress with nightly student debates on current policy issues.

The Georgetown session of The Junior Statesmen Summer School is both exciting and demanding. For this reason, older, more academically advanced students are encouraged to apply. In order to succeed, you must be self-disciplined and socially mature. In addition, all Georgetown participants must have experience writing term papers.

"The Summer School has taught me more about government in three weeks than my regular courses do in a year. It is one thing to learn about policy and policymakers in a classroom, and other to learn about it from the policymakers themselves."

— Rachel Navarre, Georgetown Summer School graduate

Dear Secretary Card:

On behalf of The Junior Statesmen Foundation, I am honored to confirm that you will be joining the outstanding student leaders who are attending the 63rd annual Junior Statesmen Summer School at Georgetown University as a guest speaker. Thank you for accepting our invitation.

We look forward to meeting with you on Monday, June 30 at 2:00 PM in Room 450 of the Old Executive Office Building. A student and I will meet with you before your presentation to answer any questions you may have about the program. This student will then escort you to the podium and introduce you.

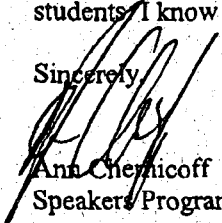

We would prefer that you structure your time with our students with five to ten minutes of opening comments followed by twenty to twenty-five minutes of questions and answers. The students have been briefed on some of the issues you are currently working on and are looking forward to asking about your life and your work. Please call on students to ask questions after your opening comments. At the conclusion of the half-hour session, a student will thank you for sharing your time with the group.

Junior Statesmen is a nonpartisan, educational organization dedicated to involving high school students in politics and government. For over sixty years, Junior Statesmen has worked in cooperation with high schools to prepare students for the responsibilities of leadership in a democratic society.

Following this letter, please find a copy of the agenda for the rest of the day on which you are speaking. Your help in making this exciting program a success is greatly appreciated. If you or your staff have any questions prior to the program, please do not hesitate to contact me at through my office at Georgetown, 202/333-0364. I can also be reached via cell at (b)(6).
 If you have any last minute scheduling changes, please call me on my cell phone as soon as possible.

Thank you again for agreeing to share your expertise with these bright and politically active students. I know you will find your time with them both stimulating and rewarding.

Sincerely,

 Ann Chernicoff

Junior Statesmen Summer School at Georgetown University

Washington, D.C. — June 15- July 6 and July 13- Aug 3

You won't just learn about politics, you'll live it.

Georgetown Summer School students experience a unique combination of rigorous academics and hands-on learning in our nation's capital. During three fast-paced weeks, the study of government is enriched by a high level Speakers Program and nightly student debates.

In recent years, summer school students have met and questioned:

George Bush
Bill Clinton
Colin Powell
Madeline Albright
Ari Fleischer
Norman Mineta
Andrew Card
William Cohen
Michael McCurry
Karl Rove
Ann Veneman
Janet Reno

United States Senators

Barbara Boxer
Dianne Feinstein

Loretta Sanchez

Other Recent Speakers

Sam Donaldson
Kenneth Starr
Bob Dole
Anthony Kennedy
Sarah Brady
Bill Bradley
Charles Bierbauer
Eleanor Clift
Robert Novak
Marc Racicot
Judy Woodruff

In class, university professors guide you through a semester of advanced coursework in three weeks. Lectures, class discussions and political simulations explore the basic tenets of political science. Students may enroll in AP American Government, U.S. Foreign Policy, Constitutional Law or The Presidency. Assignments include extensive reading, two essay examinations and completion of a major research paper.

In Washington, D.C., you meet and question national leaders, including White House officials, Congressional leaders, Cabinet members, lobbyists and journalists. Students watch the House and Senate in session, attend Congressional hearings and use the vast resources of Washington while doing research for their term papers and debates. These trips are organized and chaperoned by the Speakers Program staff, RAs and the Summer School Director.

On Capitol Hill, a special reception honoring you and your classmates is an opportunity to meet members of Congress, politically active Junior Statesmen alumni and other government officials.

During Congressional Workshop, students put their knowledge into action. You and your classmates will help create and run a legislative body patterned after the U.S. Congress with nightly student debates on current policy issues.

The Georgetown session of The Junior Statesmen Summer School is both exciting and demanding. For this reason, older, more academically advanced students are encouraged to apply. In order to succeed, you must be self-disciplined and socially mature. In addition, all Georgetown participants must have experience writing term papers.

"The Summer School has taught me more about government in three weeks than my regular courses do in a year. It is one thing to learn about policy and policymakers in a classroom, and other to learn about it from the policymakers themselves."

— Rachel Navarre, Georgetown Summer School graduate

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

BRIEFING WITH JUNIOR STATESMAN FOUNDATION

Monday, June 30, 2003

EEOB Room 450

2:00 PM - 3:30 PM

I. PURPOSE

To speak to the students of the Junior Statesman Summer School at Georgetown University.

II. BACKGROUND

The Junior Statesman Summer School at Georgetown University combines academics with hands-on learning. The students, in their study of government, participate in nightly student debates and a Speakers Program. Lectures, class discussions, and political simulations detail the basic tenets of political science. Students enroll in the particular studies of American Government, U.S. Foreign Policy, Constitutional Law, and the Presidency.

Throughout the program, the students are able to meet and question national leaders, including Congressional leaders, Cabinet members, lobbyists and journalists. Students watch the House and Senate in session, and attend Congressional hearings. The trips are organized and chaperoned by the Speakers Program staff, RAs and the Summer School Director.

In a Congressional workshop, the students put their knowledge into action by creating and running a legislative body patterned after the U.S. Congress with nightly student debates on current policy issues.

Past speakers for the Junior Statesmen include President George H.W. Bush, Secretary Colin Powell, Ari Fleisher, Karl Rove, Senator Trent Lott, and Bob Dole.

John Whitehead began his professional career at Goldman, Sachs & Co. in 1947 and remained there for 38 years, retiring as Co-Chairman and Senior Partner in 1984. During that time, Goldman Sachs became one of the world's preeminent investment banking and brokerage firms. Mr. Whitehead served as U.S. Deputy Secretary of State from 1985 to 1989, and was subsequently awarded the Presidential Citizens Medal by President Reagan. Since leaving Washington, Mr. Whitehead has been active in a wide range of educational, civic and charitable organizations. He has served as Chairman of the Board of the United Nations Association of the United States, the Asia Society, the Harvard University Board of Overseers, and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, among other institutions. Mr. Whitehead currently serves as Chairman of the Lower Manhattan Redevelopment Corporation, the entity charged with rebuilding Lower Manhattan following the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001. Mr. Whitehead co-founded FSVC with the late Cyrus R. Vance in 1990.

About Us

Who We Are

"The underlying need for strong financial infrastructure in countries seeking to build robust economies has never been clearer."

J. Andrew Spindler
Executive Director

The Financial Services Volunteer Corps (FSVC), a not-for-profit organization, is a private-public partnership whose mission is to help build the sound banking and financial systems required by countries seeking to develop transparent market-oriented economies. Sound financial infrastructure, together with the rule of law, must be present in a country if it is to benefit from significant amounts of domestic investment, foreign investment or foreign trade. This infrastructure is also necessary to create the conditions for lasting economic opportunity.

FSVC was founded in 1990 by John Whitehead and the late Cyrus Vance at the behest of President George H.W. Bush. The organization's work initially focused on Central and Eastern Europe and has expanded eastward over subsequent years. FSVC has worked in twenty-seven countries to date to deliver objective expert advice focused at both the technical and senior policy levels. FSVC's core work concentrates on the strengthening of commercial banking systems, the development of central bank capabilities, and the building of capital markets. Major additional areas of work include the legal framework for the financial system, payments system development, pension reform, and the combating of financial corruption and terrorist finance.

FSVC has leveraged approximately $45 million in USAID funding since 1990 to provide nearly $150 million in technical assistance, principally through the involvement of private-sector volunteer experts. These volunteer experts are typically prominent in their fields, in the prime of their careers and at the leading edge of financial market work. Nearly 2,100 experts from the financial, legal and regulatory communities have taken part in over 1,100 FSVC missions, reaching nearly 30,000 counterparts in developing and transition countries. FSVC currently operates its two largest programs in Russia and Indonesia.

FSVC's Board is currently co-chaired by Mr. Whitehead and Paul Volcker. John Walker serves as the President of the Board. FSVC's Executive Director is Andrew Spindler.

Anne Frank the Writer An Unfinished Story

"Why should you be nicer to a rich lady than to a poor one? Has anyone ever studied the difference in their characters?"

"Human greatness does not lie in wealth or power, but in character and goodness. People are just people, and all people have faults and shortcomings, but all of us are born with a basic goodness. If we were to start by adding to that goodness instead of stifling it, by giving poor people the feeling that they too are human beings, we wouldn't necessarily have to give money or material things, since not everyone has them to give."

— Anne Frank in her essay "Give!"
